

O PAPERS

O Papers are papers that are taught and examined outside the Faculty of Classics and that may nevertheless be taken by candidates for Part II of the Classical Tripos. If, in your second year, you are considering taking one of the O papers, be sure to attend the special advisory session on them offered in the Faculty at the start of Easter Term. If you do decide to take one, it is important that your Director of Studies should, at the earliest opportunity, put you in touch with an appropriate adviser from the faculty in which the paper is taught. The lecture times for the courses can be found in the official Lecture List, issued as a number of the Cambridge University Reporter at the beginning of Michaelmas Term. Details of the syllabus, recommended reading etc. can be obtained from the faculty concerned. If, after following the above routes, you still have problems in obtaining adequate advice, you could try consulting the Academic Secretary for Undergraduate Affairs (see p.16).

Twelve papers, of which you may take at most one, are available as O Papers. Each gives you an opportunity to learn how another discipline studies a subject adjacent to one that you will have studied within Classics. Their variety therefore reflects the variety of Classics itself. They are as follows:

- Paper O1: The History of Ideas on Language (Paper 12 of Part II of the Linguistics Tripos).
- Paper O2: Introduction to modern Greek language and culture (Paper Gr. 3 of Part IB of the Modern and Medieval Languages Tripos).
- Paper O3: Tragedy (Paper 2 of Part II of the English Tripos).
- Paper O4: History and theory of literary criticism (Paper 9 of Part II of the English Tripos).
- Paper O5: Metaphysics and epistemology (Paper 1 of Part IB of the Philosophy Tripos).
- Paper O6: History of political thought to c. 1700 (Paper 19 of Part I of the Historical Tripos).
- Paper O7: A special subject in Neo-Latin literature: Marullus, Poliziano, Bèze, and Buchanan (Paper NL2 of Part II of the Modern and Medieval Languages Tripos).
